River and Harbor Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8.—Mr. Bynum voted against the river and harbor bill in the house. In explanation, he said that the appropriations for many rivers and harbors were a squandering of money without any possible good results, while the Mississippi river appropriation would effect no more good than if it were sunk at the bottom of the river; that the plan adopted was one he could not approve of. Of the other Indiana members, Kleiner did not vote, Cobb voted nay, Howard aye, Holman nay, Matson nay, Browne did not vote, Johnson did not vote, Ward aye, Owen aye, Steel nay, Lowry nay, and Ford nay. Some of the negative votes were due only to the Mississippi river appropriation.

The bill passed by a vote of 143 to 102. It appropriates about $75,000,000.

H. C. F. Leutz, of Chicago, was in the city this week.

A Chattanooga special says that Miss Rose Voorhees, a daughter of the senator, is the subject of most persistent and unwelcome attentions from A. P. Dodge, a merchant prince of New York, who met her in Washington last winter, and has followed her through her trip in the south this spring.

OUR REGULAR WEEKLY LETTER.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, May 3.—I saw the president out driving to-day. Col. Lamont was with him, and the two were leaning back in the president's Victoria enjoying the air. The team of seal brown horses for which Cleveland paid $1,000 were rattling over the streets at a good round pace, and the reins were in the hands of Albert, the colored coachman. Albert has driven all the presidents since Grant, and he evidently felt his oats to-day. He held the reins in one hand and a whip in the other, and he sat as straight as a clothier's dummy. He was dressed in the president's livery, which is a very light drab, with big silver buttons, and he had a bug on his hat as big as that of Brewster's coachman. President Cleveland takes a drive every afternoon, and he has scoured the country about Washington in every direction. Col. Lamont always goes with him, and Lamont tells me that there is no road which they have not explored. The president had partially stopped his rides when Manning had his stroke of apoplexy, but since then he has been taking them regularly, and this is his only exercise. He is not much of a horseman, and has not, as far as I can learn, owned a horse before he came to the White House. He is too heavy to ride horseback well, and I do not think he has been in the saddle here. President Arthur drove a more fancy turnout than Cleveland. He now and then took a gallop over the hills on horseback, and he sometimes drove a four-in-hand. His livery was gorgeous, and you never saw him walking. Arthur attended St. John's church, just across the street from the White House. He always drove with his coachman and footman, and put on the style of a prince. President Cleveland is more democratic. He has his coachman and footman, and he keeps them in livery. But his two turnouts, the Victoria and the landau, cost less than $2,000, and the harness, made of black rubber and trimmed with silver, has only the simple ornament of G. C. in monogram on the rosette of the bridle. Buchanan, the last Democratic president, had a harness which alone cost $800, and Jefferson paid $1,600 for his coach horses which he drove while he was president. George Washington drove about while he was president behind four and six horse teams. His coachman and footman were white, and his chariot of state was a white hemisphere on wheels, ornamented with the paintings of one of the famous artists of the time.

The president has had a great many more callers at his afternoon receptions since the announcement has been made that he is about to marry. The ladies of Washington and all strangers are anxious to see him, and not a few of them attempt to make some jesting remark as they shake his hand. These receptions occur in the East room on the afternoons of Monday, Wednesday and Friday, of each week, and Cleveland says that they are the pleasantest part of his daily life. During them he gets away from his work and the officeseekers, and there is enough variety in them to make them interesting. Many of the people who call are only in Washington for a day or two, and the crowd that comes is of all classes. There are not a few women with babies in their arms, and it is funny to see how the president shies off and straightens himself up when one of these approaches. He does not kiss babies very often, but when he does it you can hear the smack of his lips at the farthest corner of the East room. I am inclined to think that there is more smack than kiss, and that the president's baby kisses are like those of the stage—more noise than sweetness.

President Cleveland is a good handshaker. He stands straight on his feet at all of his receptions, and his Prince Albert coat is kept buttoned tightly about his fat frame. He seizes your hand firmly, and grasps it tightly while he looks straight into your eye and says: "How do you do, Mr. Blank." He always mentions your name, and never fails to look at you. If you go to one of these receptions you will perhaps have to wait a short time in the East room. You may sit down on the furniture and walk about the room if you please. The president comes in with Col. Dinsmore beside him, and he stands near the door while the crowd forms in line and in single file comes up to be presented. Col. Dinsmore takes your name and introduces you to the president, saying: "Mr. President, this is Mr. Blank." The president grasps your hand and gives you a shake. Before you know it you are out of the White House. President Cleveland can shake hands at these receptions at the rate of one for every two seconds. He has got the matter down to a science, and he allows none to talk to him or bother him about office at such times. He is very kind to children, and I think he likes to meet boys and girls better than grown people. He treats the poor as well as the richly dressed, and I saw him speak very kindly to a marketwoman, at one of these receptions the other day, who passed through with a basket of eggs upon her arm.

The eight-hour law is about to be put in force in Washington, but will not affect the president. There is probably no man in the country who works longer or harder than Grover Cleveland. He puts in an average of seventeen hours a day, and ten hours of this at least is brain work. He rises at 7, shaves and dresses himself. His boots are blacked by a servant, and he is particular as to his personal appearance. He does not spend, however, much time in dressing, and as soon as he is through he sits down and reads the newspapers until breakfast. He eats a hearty breakfast of beefsteak and fruit, washing it down with strong coffee. He then goes directly to his office and begins to write letters. He answers all his own private correspondence, and writes very rapidly. He does not use a stenographer at all, and his state papers have all been written with his own hand. After writing a couple of hours his business callers begin to arrive, and he must throw aside his writing and listen to them. First come prominent men, senators, supreme court judges and cabinet ministers. These have weighty matters to talk about and the president's mind must be all alive. After he is through with these there are a hundred or so of officeseekers, who are admitted by cards and who must all be talked with. Then there are more prominent men, and now 1 o'clock having arrived the president goes down and gets a lunch. He eats likes a school boy, and it takes him about fifteen minutes to get through with this hearty midday meal. He now shakes hands with the callers in the East room and then goes back to work. He grinds away until 3 o'clock, and then he and Lamont take the drives of which I have already told you. After his drive he takes his dinner. He likes plain food at this, and he sometimes washes it down with a glass of wine or a bottle of beer. After dinner he goes back to his office, and he and Lamont work away there until far into the night. If you will stand by the Washington monument at certain midnights of the week, you may see a light glimmering in one window of the White House across the lawn. That window is the one which looks out of the library just back of President Cleveland's desk. A telescope would show the president writing by it, and you might stop and watch it for an hour or two before it goes out, and the darkness shows that the president thinks he has earned this day's salary at least, and has gone to bed.

dent's office. This room is known as the cabinet room, and in it the cabinet meetings of administration after administration have been held. It is plainly furnished, with a fire place at the right and a mirror over it, and several oil paintings upon the walls. The cabinet table, around which the ministers sit while the council of state is going on, is a round-cornered affair of black walnut, about eight feet long and four feet wide. The president sits at the end with his back towards the window. At his right is Secretary Bayard, with his smooth face and natty air, and next to him the stiff, gray-mustached secretary of war. Next comes the postmaster general, and at the lower end of the table sits the long-whiskered, doughty Lamar. Secretary Manning's seat is on the president's left hand. It is vacant now and no one presumes to take it during the secretary's absence. Below Manning sits Secretary Whitney in eyeglasses, and between Whitney and Lamar is the seat of the attorney general. These cabinet meetings are very informal. No one rises when he makes a speech, and the president does not call the cabinet to order, nor as a general thing put things to vote. The ministers sit in all kinds of positions but there is no smoking. The matters relating to the secretary of state are first discussed, and those of the other secretaries in the order as they sit around the table. In front of President Cleveland there is a pen and ink, and most of the secretaries bring paper with them, which they lay on the table before them when they sit down. To the left of the table on the wall there is a gigantic map of the United States big enough to carpet a room 8x10 feet in size. Under it there is a globe, at least four feet in diameter, on which is painted a map of the world. The cabinet ministers often stand with the president under this map, and they discuss together as to how a thing shall be done in the different parts of the country represented by it. They gather around the globe and discuss questions of state policy, illustrating their points upon it. All of them have learned much geography during the past year, and they do nothing without thoroughly understanding the why and the wherefore.

President Cleveland's cabinet gets along very amicably together. They chat with each other on the front steps of the executive mansion while they wait for their carriages, and Vilas is, I am told, the best story teller among them. Vilas always rides to the White House. He has an English coachman with side whiskers of the same dapple gray as his horse. Lamar rode to cabinet meetings for a time on horseback, but he has his carriage now. Both Whitney and Bayard often walk, and you may now and then see them coming to the cabinet meetings together.

WHITNEY, ENDICOTT AND LAMAR.

President Cleveland is reported as saying that he is too poor to marry. This depends on what you call poor. One can live on $300 or $30,000 and upward a year, and at the end of the year he has only lived after all. Most men with Cleveland's possessions would think themselves well off. He gets $50,000 a year

salary, and somewhere between $30,000 and $40,000 more to keep up the White House establishment. I can see no reason why the president could not save money on these figures, and he ought to easily save $20,000 a year. A great deal is made of the expense of his entertainments and state dinners, but these only last from January to Lent, and the cost of them has been greatly overestimated. The president pays nothing for stationery, fuel or house rent. He does not travel any to speak of, and his ordinary living does not cost him much more than though he were a private citizen. President Cleveland is said by his Buffalo friends to have some investments about that city. He made $25,000 a year at his practice before he got into politics, and some of his real estate investments in Buffalo are rapidly growing in value. One friend of his says he is worth at least $100,000. He ought to be able to save another $100,000 from his salary, and if he is the kind of a man that I think he is, he will go back to his law practice when he gets out of politics.

The Situation at Chicago and the Work at the Fort Wayne Depots There.

CINCINNATI.

CINCINNATI, May 8.—Outwardly there is little apparent change in the strike situation. City employes have been voted ten hours pay for eight hours work and a number of individual manufacturers have made settlements with their men but a great mass of strikers remain idle. There is but little indication of a strike on the streets; there are no crowds and business seems to be progressing as usual. Orderly processions of strikers have passed through the streets every day, but very pronounced denunciation of violence and particularly of socialistic methods has given to the public a sense of freedom from danger of a riot. This feeling has not been shared by the authorities. For several days the First regiment of the Ohio National Guards has been on duty near the court house. Several hundred special policemen have been appointed. Safety organizations have been made all over the city at the mayor's request. Four regiments of militia have been ordered here by the governor. The explanation for all this is made to-day for the first time. It is that the police commissioners have discovered that socialists to the number of six hundred are organized and armed with effective rifles, that they control here the manufacture of dynamite bombs, that the one used in Chicago was made here and they have now on hand for use a supply of these infernal machines. Commissioners claim they have found the name of the manufacturer, Wm. Haines, Covington, Ky. This in connection with a rumor that Herr Most was in Covington last night gives some plausability to fears of the authorities and accounts for apparently unusual precautions taken. The troops ordered have not yet arrived, they will probably be quartered in the suburbs.

TROOPS ARRIVE.

The Seventh regiment of the Ohio National Guard has arrived at the Hamilton county fair grounds and have gone into camp. The fource altogether will have two field pieces and nine gattling guns. Col. Fred Moore, of the First regiment, has been placed in command.

CHICAGO, May 8.—The News has received a letter purporting to be from A. R. Parsons, saying he is in hiding and threatening death to all who try to find him.

HERR MOST.

Information was received at the police headquarters last night to the effect that Herr Most, the propounder of anarchistic principles, would arrive in the city this morning ot 7:15. The authorities immediately determined to arrest him. The conductor pointed out the person supposed to be Most, but the detectives failed to recognize him from the description they had.

PITTSBURG AND FORT WAYNE.

At the Pittsburg and Fort Wayne depot about thirty men were at work. These were mostly clerks from the general offices and men brought in from outside. Only four old men applied for work yesterday morning. The company has posted notices to the effect that all freight handlers who are not in their places at roll-call this morning will be considered as having resigned their places. About thirty cars were loaded and sent out yesterday.

The fund for the relief of the families of the killed and wounded at the Haymarket horror will have reached $50,000 by to-night.

THE ANARCHISTS.

A petition for a habeas corpus in the case of Mrs. L. M. Holmes, Adolph Fisher and a man named Ligier, employes of the Arbeiter Zeitung, was called before Judge Rogers this morning. Upon a statement of the states' attorney, the judge admitted Mrs. Holmes to bail, ordered Ligier's release and ordered Fischer returned to jail for one week. The state's attorney said he had evidence to prove that Fischer threw the bomb or was a party to it.

WABASH ROAD.

Yesterday morning Receiver Thomas E. Tutt, of the Wabash railroad, arrived in town and had a short conversation with Judge Gresham, of the United States circuit court. He thought it advisable to look over the situation, and together with Mr. Talmadge, and Superintendent of Transportation Wade, and Major Blodgett, general solicitor of the road, spent the forenoon in visiting the yards and shops. They found that considerable business was being done and a large amount of freight was being handled. Also that very few strikers were about and none were disturbing the operation of the road. Under the circumstances they thought that with the aid of the thirty deputy sheriffs furnished to the Western Indiana, it would not be necessary to ask the interference of the federal court.

The caucus decided to pursue this course and the members came into the chamber again at 11 a. m. The journal of each day since Tuesday was read and declared approved. Mr. Pavey, of Fayette, moved to take from the table a report of the republican members of the senatorial investigating committee, which was agreed by a vivi voice vote, and then a resolution submitted by the same committee was adopted, which recommended the seating of four republican claimants. The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote, and the new senators came forward and took the oath of office amid a storm of applause.

TROTTING HORSES.

The year 1824 marks the day when 2.40 was considered a remarkable trotting record for a mile. Maud S., the present champion, came to the front in 1880 with 2.10¾, while her record is now 2.08¾. Sporting men claim that the horse will yet be bred which can go a mile in two minutes, while others hold that Maud S.'s time cannot be beaten.

Not less surprising than this rapid reduction in the trotters' time is the speed with which Athlophoros has grown into public favor. As a single instance of its efficacy may be mentioned the case of Mr. W. D. Murphy, of No. 310 Yandes street, Indianapolis, Indiana, who tells this story:

"I first contracted rheumatism in the war, in which I served four years and six months. After returning from service the disease seemed to assume a periodical form. I would have at least two attacks every year, and between these attacks I would suffer all the time. Often I could not walk or get out of bed, and the disease would catch me in the legs, so that while standing I would feel as if I were about to fall. It was one afternoon that I took my first dose of Athlophoros, and then at night I took another. I slept soundly that night. The next morning when I awoke I had no pain. I took a few doses more, but in all used only about two-thirds of a bottle before my rheumatism was gone. That was over a year ago, and since then I have had only a slight twinge. So great is my confidence in Athlophoros that I have recommended it to many different people. Among them is a Mrs. Wright, a lady seventy years old, who was entirely rid of all her pain by the medicine after suffering from rheumatism for fifteen years. In every instance it gave entire satisfaction."

Mr. R. Forster, a dealer in furniture at No. 320 Main St., Terre Haute, Ind., who tells the following:

"I have used Athlophoros with the very best satisfaction. I had neuralgia for years, and used about every medicine for it without obtaining any relief until I began taking Athlophoros. I was told of the remedy by a friend who bought a bottle of it for me, and I took some that same night. The next day I was as free from pain as if I had never had neuralgia. I went out and spent several hours in a walk which the day before would have been misery to me. During the summer months I am never troubled with neuralgia, but if I should be again I would certainly use Athlophoros, of whose merits I am fully convinced. I have a bottle on hand, but have no use for it at present. I have recommended it to several persons, and have yet to learn of a single instance where it did not accomplish its mission of good work.

Miss Kate Warren, of Stockwell, Ind., who says that she has not been able to effect a complete cure in her case because of inability to obtain Athlophoros when she desired to use it, nevertheless gives this testimony to its merits:

"I have used Athlophoros and have been very much benefited by it. I heartily recommend it to all I meet who are suffering from that dreadful disease, rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed.

Lizzie Gabin, who mysteriously disappeared from the Mundy house, Lexington, two weeks ago, was found by her parents at Seymour, employed as cook in a hotel, and declines to return home.

The miners of Clay county will meet in mass at Brazil, on Saturday, the 8th. Daniel McLaughlin, president of the Miners' protective association of Illinois, will be present and address the meeting.

Prof. John Cooper has resigned the superintendency of the Evansville public schools, and has been succeeded by Professor Layne, who has been at the head of the public schools of Danville, Ill., for some years.

At Covington the jury in the case of the state against John Rheinhardt for the murder of Henry Loddie January 16 last, after being out four hours, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree, and sentenced the prisoner to the penitentiary for life.

James R. Miller, the young man who shot Terry O'Donald on the night of April 24, was brought before 'Squire Nichols at Danville, and after thorough investigation was acquitted. The killing was a clear case of self defense.

The business men of Evansvile held a meeting last evening and passed resolutions protesting against the building of a bridge across the Ohio at Cairo, and requesting Senators Voorhees and Harrison, and Hon. J. J. Kleiner, and all members of congress, to use their utmost endeavors to defeat the scheme.

A Lafayette lady named Vaughn heard voices in the evening in front of the house and, going out, found a negro and white girl on the steps. She requested them to go, and threatened to call the police, whereupon the man caught her by the throat and gave her a severe choking, the girl attempting to cut her with a pen knife. The lady finally screamed and the pair disappeared before they could be arrested.

Dr. Tarleton was elected mayor of Martinsville Tuesday. His majority was one vote. In his ward, which was sixteen republican, he got fifteen majority. Dr. Tarleton is one of the oldest residents of Martinsville, having practiced in Morgan county for thirty years. He was one of the board of trustees of the insane hospital in connection with Dr. Rogers and Fishback for six years.

A Big School Building.

[Michigan City Dispatch.]

The detailed plans for the parochial school to be built on Tenth street this summer by the congregation of St. Mary's church, have arrived from the architects of Fort Wayne, and we have had the pleasure of inspecting them. The building will be exactly the same as the recent description published in the Dispatch, and it will be the handsomest church school in northern Indiana. The contract for 500,000 brick necessary was let to Roeske Bros., who are to begin delivering by the 20th. John Renkawitz will be superintendent, and the cornerstone will likely be laid in June. If possible Bishop Dwenger will preside at this interesting ceremony.

The funeral of Mrs. B. B. Fowler has been postponed until Monday, May 10, at 2 p. m., to await the arrival of friends from Colorado.

A LIQUOR LEAGUE.

Christ Enteman Vice-President of the State Association.

At the meeting of the representatives of the liquor interests of the state yesterday afternoon the newly formed organization was given the name of the Indiana protective association. It was decided to appoint an executive committee consisting of six members at large and one from each congressional district. The first as selected were Jacob Wachstetter, John N. Scott, P. H. McNellis and John Huegele, Indianapolis, Lafayette Bulett, of Evansville, and Joseph Bewcamp, Decatur.

The following officers were elected: President, Frank Maus, Indianapolis; vice-president, Chris. Enteman, Fort Wayne; secretary, Edward Schmidt, Indianapolis; treasurer, Chris Waterman, Indianapolis. Branches of the organization are to be established in the outside cities and towns. In the discussion over the political outlook, it was the general sentiment that there should be no change in the existing liquor laws and that the organization would vigorously fight any effort to bring about high license. Last night a constitution and by-laws were adopted and the association adjourned to meet at the call of the executive committee.

DR. YOUNGE.

Rearranges the Tri-State Veterans' Association He First Organized.

The board of incorporators of the Tri-state Veterans' association of Indiana, Ohio and Michigan held a business meeting at the Bates house, Indianapolis, yesterday, and re-elected Colonel J. W. Younge, of Fort Wayne, adjutant general of the association. It was decided to change the form of the seal from a circle to a triangle, with the name of the order inclosed. Action was also taken looking toward enjoining any other association from using the same name, and the board adjourned to meet again June 1. Amended articles of association were filed with the secretary of state and county recorder at Indianapolis. Dr. Younge came home beaming with victory this morning.

HE PUT UP.

A Fort Wayne Maiden After a Winchester Youth.

"There is at present in Fort Wayne a young unmarried woman who had a very serious grievance against a young man in this city, but a few days ago the latter is said to have gotten out of the responsibility of being called 'papa' a very few months hence by the timely application of some dollars, and enough of 'em too to make it come a little high. The young woman resided here until a short time ago, and may return with her tootsy wootsy little darling 'when the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock.' As the matrimonial bee is said to be buzzing in the near vicinity of the young man we won't give names, at least at present," says the Winchester Democrat.

The Jenny Light at Huntington.

Huntington Democrat.

Wednesday evening the council, accompanied by Mr. McDonald of the Jenny Electric Light company, drove all over the town and examined into the workings of the light. They expressed themselves as being well satisfied, with the exception of West Market street, and a lamp has been placed there, which will disperse the darkness in that locality. To-day the council accepted the plant and made settlement for it, paying the cash payment of $2,310 and giving city orders for the remainder of the purchase price conditioned upon the contract. Mr. McDonald leaves a man here as long as the council may desire, free of charge, to look after it. So now the light is ours.

Newspaper Notes.

The Vincennes News has started a Sunday edition.

Laporte is the latest county seat in the field with a daily.

How Lafayette supports so many papers is a mystery. Richmond and Fort Wayne are almost as bad.

County papers continue to multiply. The county seat with less than three is getting to be uncommon

Mr. R. S. Bancroft, a veteran newspaper man, has become assistant editor of the Lafayette Journal.

The Northern Indiana editors are anticipating a remarkably good time at their annual reunion at Maxinkuckee in July. All editors of the state and their families are invited to join them.

The Vincennes Sun, which has been published for some years at 10 o'clock in the morning, is now published as an evening paper, having added largely to its news facilities. It has a fine field and its past is a guarantee that it will fill it.

The Shelbyville Times, the democratic paper run in opposition to Scott Ray's organ, will on Saturday commence the publication of a morning daily, to be called the Morning Times. It will issue a double number on Sunday, but none on Monday morning.

The yard at the Wabash depot at Huntington is being sodded and fitted up with flower beds.

District Attorney Lamb thinks he will get the democratic congressional nomination in the eight district on the first ballot without any particular effort. Sullivan county has already chosen her delegates and they are all for him. The other candidates are Judge Joshua Jump, of Vermillion county, and Judge T. F. Davidson, of Crawfordsville.

The annual meeting of the Allen county Bible society will be held Sunday evening, May 9th, at the First Presbyterian church. All are invited. 7-2t

Honors to a Distinguished Georgian.

It goes without saying that if Gen. Grant had been a southerner, or was he even buried in southern soil, it is more than likely that a memorial to him would not have to go begging for subscriptions, and that notwithstanding the great difference in the wealth of the two sections. The southern people have always been an impulsive race, but they are also warm hearted and grateful to their friends. Witness the magnificent memorial that they are about to erect in Richmond to their dead chieftain, Robert E. Lee. And here is another monument, but this time it is a statesman that is to be honored.

THE "BEN" HILL STATUE.

On Peachtree street, Atlanta, Ga., not far from the governor's mansion, there is now in course of erection a magnificent pedestal for a statute of heroic proportions to the late Senator Benjamin H. Hill, of that state. The figure is of marble, modeled by Sculptor John Doyle, of New York city, and stands ten feet in height. It presents the sturdy senator in a calm and thoughtful attitude. The clothes of our modern immortals are the most difficult portion of the work for an artist to handle without presenting a stiff and ungraceful appearance. The sculptor seems to have managed the costume pretty well in this case, but the unfortunate thought in the matter is that when the Prince Albert coat is superseded by the coming changes of fickle fashion, then the statue will become unsightly. Senator Hill has only been dead three years, and thus early do the citizens of his state honor him.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

I think Ely's Cream Balm is the best remedy for catarrh I ever saw. I never took anything that relieved me so quickly and I have not felt so well for a long time. I used to be troubled with severe headaches two or three times a week, but since using the balm have only had one and that was very light compared with the former ones.—A. J. Alcorn, agent U. P. ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Prices of

Furniture

Advancing.

From every quarter, by every mail, we are receiving notices of "15 per cent.," "20 per cent." and "25 per cent. advance" on all kinds of manufactured furniture,

The idleness of thousands of cabinet makers who are out upon strikes, the advance in wages now being demanded, and to a large extent, granted, and the demand for eight hours to constitute a day's work, thus cutting down the productiveness of labor 20 per cent. is all tending to great scarcity of goods and a rapid advance in prices.

Anticipating just this state of affairs, we have piled in the goods in car lots, until our immense establishment is packed from cellar to garret, and from floor to ceiling, with the best bought stock of Fine Furniture we have ever shown to the trade.

This will enable us to go through the best part of the Spring Season without advancing prices, but we advise our friends to buy both Furniture and Carpets at as early a day as possible.

Every Bedroom Set now marked $35 is worth $40; every $40 Set is worth in the neighborhood of $50; and the same is true of all other articles in our establishment. If you should buy of us today a $50 Bedroom Set, and we had but the one left, and your neighbor should to-morrow want one like it, the best price we could give her upon it would be $60.

The time is not likely to ever again occur when you can furnish your home as cheaply as now.

AMERICA'S POPULAR PREACHER.

The Rev. Dr. T. De Witt Talmage—His Father's Struggles.

The reception and wide circulation which the press of the country has given the recent series of sermons of Dr. Talmage on the Marriage Ring, show that the words of the reverend doctor have even grown in interest to the public. He has reached the zenith of his fame and influence, as it does seem scarcely possible that a single minister could attain a wider popularity than that which he now holds.

Dr. Talmage owes his success to hard, unflagging work. The faculty for this he inherits from his parents. He was born in Bound Brook, N. J., fifty-four years ago, the youngest of twelve children.

In referring to his father Dr. Talmage says: "My father started in life belonging to the aristocracy of hard knuckles, but had this high honor that no one could despise—he was the son of a father who loved God and kept His commandments. Two eyes, two hands and two feet were the capital my father started with. For fifteen years an invalid, he had a fearful struggle to support his large family. More than once he came to his last dollar, but behind that last dollar he found Him who owns the cattle on a thousand hills, and out of the palm of whose hand all the fowls of heaven peck their food."

Speaking of his mother, he says: "I was the child of her old age, and I remember how her voice used to tremble in evening prayer, with what kindness she started me out in life, and how she watched me and cared for me all the way through; and then giving each one of us a blessing she went away to the palace window, where she is waiting for good news from us."

After graduating from the University of the City of New York, T. DeWitt Talmage studied law for one year. But he was impelled toward the pulpit, and he entered the Theological seminary at New Brunswick, N. J. His first charges were at Bellevue, N. J. and Syracuse, N. Y. From there he went to the Second Reformed Church of Philadelphia. Here his fame began. After seven years of labor here he went, in 1869, to the Brooklyn Tabernacle, which he has since rendered famous. The congregation was small, but his preaching soon attracted crowds far beyond the capacity of the building. A larger structure was erected, capable of seating 3,000 people. This was burned Dec. 22, 1872. In 1874 the present edifice was dedicated. It will seat 5,000 persons, though an enlargement of it has long been contemplated, owing to its present overcrowding, the doctor himself often gaining admittance only through the aid of the police.

Dr. Talmage preaches without notes, and sometimes to emphasize his remarks he gesticulates with the long and supple arms and legs which the Almighty has lavishly provided him with.

REV. T. DE WITT TALMAGE.

An able writer says of his sermons: "Dr. Talmage starts out with a narration of incidents told in Scripture in connection with the text. His voice is conversational in tone. He talks just as he would if at a fireside, describing scenery visited in foreign travel. With his hands folded behind his back, he leisurely promenades his long platform, about which there is neither railing nor the usual pulpit. Walking up and down, facing now one, now another section of the house, his unaffected narrative proceeds. He passes from pleasing narrative to entertaining history, and, while pointing to the entertaining features of it, also discloses with marvellous clearness the characters of the personages involved therein. But before his analysis has been recorded a curtain falls over dazzling hall, resplendant decorations and art treasures, and in their stead is opened up a view of a mountain and a cross upon it, with the Son of God being offered as a sacrifice for the sins of the world. The charming conserver, historian and artist has magically lured his audience on, enchained its fancy, spell-bound its attention, only to fit it for the transcendant glories of the divine scene he here presents. Now his thoughts glow and his gestures emphasize the ardor of his soul in the cause of salvation; on and on, from height to height of divine eulogy he leads his listeners, while they tearfully follow. It is as a recounter of history that Dr. Talmage commands and delights his audiences.

Governor of New Mexico.

E. G. ROSS.

Among the noninations by the president, which were recently confirmed by the senate, was that of E. G. Ross, as governor of New Mexico. The position is not an enviable one, as the territory contains within its borders some of the most lawless elements to be found in this country, not to mention the Mexican "greasers" that are a constant source of annoyance to the territory's executive. Governor Ross possesses that quiet firmness that augers well for his success in this office. The salary accompanying this position is but $2,600 per year, and the term of office lasts for four years.

A Woman's Sarcasm.

Mrs. Carlisle, the wife of the speaker, is a woman whose candor wears no cloak of hypocrisy or policy. Some time ago she was talking to Miss Susan B. Anthony, and spoke in high terms of herself and the other women associated in the suffrage movement.

"Ah!" replied Miss A., with tears in her eyes, "I am very grateful for your words, and wish you could know better all the women active in that great cause."

"Well," replied Mrs. C., frankly, "it is just because I don't know them better that I hold them in such high esteem."—Washington Critic.

Father Ryan.

Abram J. Ryan was born in Ireland, 46 years ago. His parents came to America, near Norfolk, Va., when he was a baby. He was a gifted, fiery boy from infancy, and was educated for the Roman Catholic priesthood. He received his training at Niagara Falls. He had barely left college and been ordained as a priest when the war broke out. He entered the Confederate service as a chaplain. More than that, he took up the southern cause and threw himself into the war with all the fire and energy of a passionate and powerful nature. His devotion did not stop at his duties as chaplain. The young Father Ryan was a fighter as well as priest and poet. When the wounded dropped a musket, he picked it up and shouldered it and used it. Once he was wounded while fighting in the ranks. It was at Nashville, Tenn. He also was of great service in the hospitals.

FATHER RYAN.

His face is a peculiar one. Swarthy and full of expression, there is that in it which suggests the oriental type. The Irish have a tradition that the true original settlers of their island were the ancient Phœnicians. Inscriptions found among ruins here and there in Ireland bear out this belief. Father Ryan's face is a strong presumption in favor of it.

After the war it seemed that his occupation was gone. He was as fiery and untamed a southerner as Robert Toombs, and he never was reconstructed. He was settled in various parishes throughout the south after the fighting was over. For a time he was at Biloxi, Miss., and later at Mobile. He was a man of eloquence and fire in his sermons. He preached during a season at the cathedral, New Orleans, and drew vast audiences, sometimes over 5,000.

He consoled his grief for the lost cause by writing poetry, and it is as a poet that he is best known. It is rather a strange circumstance that at his death he should have been more honored by the general public than by his own church, gifted preacher and lecturer though he was. He died at Louisville, Ky., at the Franciscan monastery, of heart disease. The passionate heart had worn itself out when he was only 40.

His remains were taken to Mobile for burial. At the railway station in Louisville, where his body was brought to be shipped, 100 ex-Confederate soldiers were drawn up in open line and the coffin carried between them.

In 1879 he published a volume of poems. Some of them are strikingly strong and musical. The best known is "The Conquered Banner," beginning:

Furl that banner, for 'tis weary;
Round its staff it's drooping dreary;
Furl it, fold it, it is best.

The Flag Saves Him.

As long as Mr. Jefferson Davis makes his harangues with the flag of the Union waving above his head his remarks are harmless. The flag makes a speech to the eyes of his auditors which takes all the sting out of the words that reach their ears.—Philadelphia Record.

To the Cuticura Remedies I Owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the Cuticura Remedies. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of dispair I tried the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura, the great Skin Cure, and Cuticura soap, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and Cuticura Resolvent, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was 115 sickly pounds: my weight now is 161 solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the Cuticura Remedies, North, South, East and West. To cuticura remedies I owe my Health, my Happiness, and my Life. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the Cuticura Remedies; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the Cuticura remedy." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large Cuticura Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the Cuticura remedies shall be sold only, so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drug store.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing chocking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of Sanford's Radical cure for Catarrh will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative power of Sanford's Radical Cure manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

NO PAPER

About the Fort Wayne and Dayton Road.

It seems that the new road in which C. W. Fairbanks and others are interested, to be built from Dayton to Fort Wayne, is more than a paper road. The projectors yesterday purchased ten thousand tons of steel rails. The impression is that this is really an extension of the Dayton and Ironton road, and is built to reach markets in northern Indiana with the coal mined on the roads in which the builders of the new line are interested.

No $30,000.

The suit of C. E. Cutler vs. L. M. Jones, has been dismissed at the costs of Mr. Cutler. An item in this paper stated that at the commencement of this suit, it was a case against Mr. Jones' property. This was wrong and did Mr. Jones much injury. At no time did they hold any claim at all against him. The suit was never brought to trial.

Archibald Johnson Drops Dead.

Archibald Johnson, one of the oldest residents of Lafayette township, expired suddenly while at work in the field yesterday. It is supposed that Mr. Johnson was afflicted with heart disease. He was a prominent citizen and a good democrat. His funeral occurs to-morrow afternoon.

BAD SECTION MEN.

The Grand Rapids Railroad Has a Strike up North.

A few days ago the section hands on the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad at Grand Rapids struck for higher wages and dispatched agents north and south to induce other men to strike. At Grand Rapids the strikers are boisterous and threatening. Twelve special officers are detailed to watch the property. Five of the section men of the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad congregated near the union depot yesterday afternoon and attempted by threats of violence to prevent a man named Tencate from cleaning out the tracks at the crossing of Island and Oak streets. J. C. Holt, the paymaster, remonstrated with them, but they became very abusive and he telephoned for the patrol wagon. On the arrival of the police the five section men and the sole workingman had disappeared.

River and Harbor Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8.—Mr. Bynum voted against the river and harbor bill in the house. In explanation, he said that the appropriations for many rivers and harbors were a squandering of money without any possible good results, while the Mississippi river appropriation would effect no more good than if it were sunk at the bottom of the river; that the plan adopted was one he could not approve of. Of the other Indiana members, Kleiner did not vote, Cobb voted nay, Howard aye, Holman nay, Matson nay, Browne did not vote, Johnson did not vote, Ward aye, Owen aye, Steel nay, Lowry nay, and Ford nay. Some of the negative votes were due only to the Mississippi river appropriation.

The bill passed by a vote of 143 to 102. It appropriates about $75,000,000.

OUR REGULAR WEEKLY LETTER.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, May 3.—I saw the president out driving to-day. Col. Lamont was with him, and the two were leaning back in the president's Victoria enjoying the air. The team of seal brown horses for which Cleveland paid $1,000 were rattling over the streets at a good round pace, and the reins were in the hands of Albert, the colored coachman. Albert has driven all the presidents since Grant, and he evidently felt his oats to-day. He held the reins in one hand and a whip in the other, and he sat as straight as a clothier's dummy. He was dressed in the president's livery, which is a very light drab, with big silver buttons, and he had a bug on his hat as big as that of Brewster's coachman. President Cleveland takes a drive every afternoon, and he has scoured the country about Washington in every direction. Col. Lamont always goes with him, and Lamont tells me that there is no road which they have not explored. The president had partially stopped his rides when Manning had his stroke of apoplexy, but since then he has been taking them regularly, and this is his only exercise. He is not much of a horseman, and has not, as far as I can learn, owned a horse before he came to the White House. He is too heavy to ride horseback well, and I do not think he has been in the saddle here. President Arthur drove a more fancy turnout than Cleveland. He now and then took a gallop over the hills on horseback, and he sometimes drove a four-in-hand. His livery was gorgeous, and you never saw him walking. Arthur attended St. John's church, just across the street from the White House. He always drove with his coachman and footman, and put on the style of a prince. Perhaps Cleveland is more democratic. He has his coachman and footman, and he keeps them in livery. But his two turnouts, the Victoria and the landau, cost less than $2,000, and the harness, made of black rubber and trimmed with silver, has only the simple ornament of G. C. in monogram on the rosette of the bridle. Buchanan, the last Democratic president, had a harness which alone cost $800, and Jefferson paid $1,600 for his coach horses which he drove while he was president. George Washington drove about while he was president behind four and six horse teams. His coachman and footman were white, and his chariot of state was a white hemisphere on wheels, ornamented with the paintings of one of the famous artists of the time.

The president has had a great many more callers at his afternoon receptions since the announcement has been made that he is about to marry. The ladies of Washington and all strangers are anxious to see him, and not a few of them attempt to make some jesting remark as they shake his hand. These receptions occur in the East room on the afternoons of Monday, Wednesday and Friday, of each week, and Cleveland says that they are the pleasantest part of his daily life. During them he gets away from his work and the officeseekers, and there is enough variety in them to make them interesting. Many of the people who call are only in Washington for a day or two, and the crowd that comes is of all classes. There are not a few women with babies in their arms, and it is funny to see how the president shies off and straightens himself up when one of these approaches. He does not kiss babies very often, but when he does it you can hear the smack of his lips at the farthest corner of the East room. I am inclined to think that there is more smack than kiss, and that the president's baby kisses are like those of the stage—more noise than sweetness.

President Cleveland is a good handshaker. He stands straight on his feet at all of his receptions, and his Prince Albert coat is kept buttoned tightly about his fat frame. He seizes your hand firmly, and grasps it tightly while he looks straight into your eye and says: "How do you do, Mr. Blank." He always mentions your name, and never fails to look at you. If you go to one of these receptions you will perhaps have to wait a short time in the East room. You may sit down on the furniture and walk about the room if you please. The president comes in with Col. Dinsmore beside him, and he stands near the door while the crowd forms in line and in single file comes up to be presented. Col. Dinsmore takes your name and introduces you to the president, saying: "Mr. President, this is Mr. Blank." The president grasps your hand and gives you a shake. Before you know it you are out of the White House. President Cleveland can shake hands at these receptions at the rate of one for every two seconds. He has got the matter down to a science, and he allows none to talk to him or bother him about office at such times. He is very kind to children, and I think he likes to meet boys and girls better than grown people. He treats the poor as well as the richly dressed, and I saw him speak very kindly to a marketwoman, at one of these receptions the other day, who passed through with a basket of eggs upon her arm.

The eight-hour law is about to be put in force in Washington, but will not affect the president. There is probably no man in the country who works longer or harder than Grover Cleveland. He puts in an average of seventeen hours a day, and ten hours of this at least is brain work. He rises at 7, shaves and dresses himself. His boots are blacked by a servant, and he is particular as to his personal appearance. He does not spend, however, much time in dressing, and as soon as he is through he sits down and reads the newspapers until breakfast. He eats a hearty breakfast of beefsteak and fruit, washing it down with strong coffee. He then goes directly to his office and begins to write letters. He answers all his own private correspondence, and writes very rapidly. He does not use a stenographer at all, and his state papers have all been written with his own hand. After writing a couple of hours his business callers begin to arrive, and he must throw aside his writing and listen to them. First come prominent men, senators, supreme court judges and cabinet ministers. These have weighty matters to talk about and the president's mind must be all alive. After he is through with these there are a hundred or so of officeseekers, who are admitted by cards and who must all be talked with. Then there are more prominent men, and now 1 o'clock having arrived the president goes down and gets a lunch. He eats like a school boy, and it takes him about fifteen minutes to get through with this hearty midday meal. He now shakes hands with the callers in the East room and then goes back to work. He grinds away until 3 o'clock, and then he and Lamont take the drives of which I have already told you. After his drive he takes his dinner. He likes plain food at this, and he sometimes washes it down with a glass of wine or a bottle of beer. After dinner he goes back to his office, and he and Lamont work away there until far into the night. If you will stand by the Washington monument at certain midnights of the week, you may see a light glimmering in one window of the White House across the lawn. That window is the one which looks out of the library just back of President Cleveland's desk. A telescope would show the president writing by it, and you might stop and watch it for an hour or two before it goes out, and the darkness shows that the president thinks he has earned this day's salary at least, and has gone to bed.

On three days of the week the president's work is varied by the meetings of the cabinet. These meetings take place at 11 o'clock on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. They last for an hour or longer according to the amount of business on hand. They are held in a large room which lies between that of Private Secretary Lamont and the president, and in it the cabinet meetings of administration after administration have been held. It is plainly furnished, with a fire place at the right and a mirror over it, and several oil paintings upon the walls. The cabinet table, around which the ministers sit while the council of state is going on, is a round-cornered affair of black walnut, about eight feet long and four feet wide. The president sits at the end with his back towards the window. At his right is Secretary Bayard, with his smooth face and natty air, and next to him the stiff, gray-mustached secretary of war. Next comes the postmaster general, and at the lower end of the table sits the long-whiskered, doughty Lamar. Secretary Manning's seat is on the president's left hand. It is vacant now and no one presumes to take it during the secretary's absence. Below Manning sits Secretary Whitney in eyeglasses, and between Whitney and Lamar is the seat of the attorney general. These cabinet meetings are very informal. No one rises when he makes a speech, and the president does not call the cabinet to order, nor as a general thing put things to vote. The ministers sit in all kinds of positions but there is no smoking. The matters relating to the secretary of state are first discussed, and those of the other secretaries in the order as they sit around the table. In front of President Cleveland there is a pen and ink, and most of the secretaries bring paper with them, which they lay on the table before them when they sit down. To the left of the table on the wall there is a gigantic map of the United States big enough to carpet a room 8x10 feet in size. Under it there is a globe, at least four feet in diameter, on which is painted a map of the world. The cabinet ministers often stand with the president under this map, and they discuss together as to how a thing shall be done in the different parts of the country represented by it. They gather around the globe and discuss questions of state policy, illustrating their points upon it. All of them have learned much geography during the past year, and they do nothing without thoroughly understanding the why and the wherefore.

President Cleveland's cabinet gets along very amicably together. They chat with each other on the front steps of the executive mansion while they wait for their carriages, and Vilas is, I am told, the best story teller among them. Vilas always rides to the White House. He has an English coachman with side whiskers of the same dapple gray as his horse. Lamar rode to cabinet meetings for a time on horseback, but he has his carriage now. Both Whitney and Bayard often walk, and you may now and then see them coming to the cabinet meetings together.

WHITNEY, ENDICOTT AND LAMAR.

President Cleveland is reported as saying that he is too poor to marry. This depends on what you call poor. One can live on $900 or $30,000 and upward a year, and at the end of the year he has only lived after all. Most men with Cleveland's possessions would think themselves well off. He gets $50,000 a year salary, and somewhere between $30,000 and $40,000 more to keep up the White House establishment. I can see no reason why the president could not save money on these figures, and he ought to easily save $30,000 a year. A great deal is made of the expense of his entertainments and state dinners, but these only last from January to Lent, and the cost of them has been greatly overestimated. The president pays nothing for stationery, fuel or house rent. He does not travel any to speak of, and his ordinary living does not cost him much more than though he were a private citizen. President Cleveland is said by his Buffalo friends to have some investments about that city. He made $25,000 a year at his practice before he got into politics, and some of his real estate investments in Buffalo are rapidly growing in value. One friend of his says he is worth at least $100,000. He ought to be able to save another $100,000 from his salary, and if he is the kind of a man that I think he is, he will go back to his law practice when he gets out of politics.

MANNING, WHITNEY AND VILAS.

BOMBS!

Are Made by a Cincinnati Socialist.

Six Hundred Socialists Infest the Queen City and Troops are Watching Them.

The Situation at Chicago and the Work at the Fort Wayne Depots There.

CINCINNATI.

CINCINNATI, May 8.—Outwardly there is little apparent change in the strike situation. City employes have been voted ten hours pay for eight hours work and a number of individual manufacturers have made settlements with their men but a great mass of strikers remain idle. There is but little indication of a strike on the streets; there are no crowds and business seems to be progressing as usual. Orderly processions of strikers have passed through the streets every day, but very pronounced denunciation of violence and particularly of socialistic methods has given to the public a sense of freedom from danger of a riot. This feeling has not been shared by the authorities. For several days the First regiment of the Ohio National Guards has been on duty near the court house. Several hundred special policemen have been appointed. Safety organizations have been made all over the city at the mayor's request. Four regiments of militia have been ordered here by the governor. The explanation for all this is made to-day for the first time. It is that the police commissioners have discovered that socialists to the number of six hundred are organized and armed with effective rifles, that they control here the manufacture of dynamite bombs, that the one used in Chicago was made here and they have now on hand for use a supply of these infernal machines. Commissioners claim they have found the name of the manufacturer, Wm. Haines, Covington, Ky. This in connection with a rumor that Herr Most was in Covington last night gives some plausability to fears of the authorities and accounts for apparently unusual precautions taken. The troops ordered have not yet arrived, they will probably be quartered in the suburbs.

TROOPS ARRIVE.

The Seventh regiment of the Ohio National Guard has arrived at the Hamilton county fair grounds and have gone into camp. The source altogether will have two field pieces and nine gattling guns. Col. Fred Moore, of the First regiment, has been placed in command.

CHICAGO.

PARSONS HIDING.

CHICAGO, May 8.—The News has received a letter purporting to be from A. R. Parsons, saying he is in hiding and threatening death to all who try to find him.

HERR MOST.

Information was received at the police headquarters last night to the effect that Herr Most, the propounder of anarchistic principles, would arrive in the city this morning at 7:15. The authorities immediately determined to arrest him. The conductor pointed out the person supposed to be Most, but the detectives failed to recognize him from the description they had.

PITTSBURG AND FORT WAYNE.

At the Pittsburg and Fort Wayne depot about thirty men were at work. These were mostly clerks from the general offices and men brought in from outside. Only four old men applied for work yesterday morning. The company has posted notices to the effect that all freight handlers who are not in their places at roll-call this morning will be considered as having resigned their places. About thirty cars were loaded and sent out yesterday.

The fund for the relief of the families of the killed and wounded at the Haymarket horror will have reached $50,000 by to-night.

THE ANARCHISTS.

A petition for a habeas corpus in the case of Mrs. L. M. Holmes, Adolph Fishor and a man named Ligler, employes of the Arbeiter Zeitung, was called before Judge Rogers this morning. Upon a statement of the states' attorney, the judge admitted Mrs. Holmes to bail, ordered Ligler's release and ordered Fischer returned to jail for one week. The state's attorney said he had evidence to prove that Fischer threw the bomb or was a party to it.

WABASH ROAD.

Yesterday morning Receiver Thomas E. Tatt, of the Wabash railroad, arrived in town and had a short conversation with Judge Gresham, of the United States circuit court. He thought it advisable to look over the situation, and together with Mr. Talmadge, and Superintendent of Transportation Wade, and Major Blodgett, general solicitor of the road, spent the forenoon in visiting the yards and shops. They found that considerable business was being done and a large amount of freight was being handled. Also that very few strikers were about and none were disturbing the operation of the road. Under the circumstances they thought that with the aid of the thirty deputy sheriffs furnished to the Western Indiana, it would not be necessary to ask the interference of the federal court.

AN ADVANCE

Given to the Pittsburg and Fort Wayne Men.

CHICAGO, May 8.—Two hundred employes of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago round house were granted an advance of twenty-five cents per day and returned to work this morning.

MILWAUKEE.

SOCIALISTS ARRAIGNED.

MILWAUKEE, May 8.—Nineteen socialists and anarchists, including Paul Grattkan, Frank Hirth, Carl Simon and Gustav Rossler, ringleaders, were arranged before Judge Mallory this morning on a charge of riot and conspiracy to kill and murder. Bail in each case was fixed at $5,000 and all remained in jail.

RELEASED.

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—I. G. Hewett, the leader of the deputies who fired on and killed several of the mob at East St. Louis a month ago, gave bail in the sum of $5,800 and left for Meridian, Miss.

TOOK THE OATH.

The Hamilton County Senators Take Their Oath.

COLUMBUS, May 8.—The republican members of the Ohio senate convened this morning at 10 o'clock and without transacting any business, went into a caucus to discuss the proposition to consider as special order the Hamilton county contest case and to seat four republican claimants by a viva voice vote before it was officially ascertained there was no quorum present.

The caucus decided to pursue this course and the members came into the chamber again at 11 a. m. The journal of each day since Tuesday was read and declared approved. Mr. Pavey, of Fayette, moved to take from the table a report of the republican members of the senatorial investigating committee, which was agreed by a vivi voice vote, and then a resolution submitted by the same committee was adopted, which recommended the seating of four republican claimants. The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote, and the new senators came forward and took the oath of office amid a storm of applause.

TROTTING HORSES.

The year 1824 marks the day when 2.40 was considered a remarkable trotting record for a mile. Maud S., the present champion, came to the front in 1880 with 2.10¾, while her record is now 2.08¾. Sporting men claim that the horse will yet be bred which can go a mile in two minutes, while others hold that Maud S.'s time cannot be beaten.

Not less surprising than this rapid reduction in the trotters' time is the speed with which Athlophoros has grown into public favor. As a single instance of its efficacy may be mentioned the case of Mr. W. D. Murphy, of No. 310 Yandes street, Indianapolis, Indiana, who tells this story:

"I first contracted rheumatism in the war, in which I served four years and six months. After returning from service the disease seemed to assume a periodical form. I would have at least two attacks every year, and between these attacks I would suffer all the time. Often I could not walk or get out of bed, and the disease would catch me in the legs, so that while standing I would feel as if I were about to fall. It was one afternoon that I took my first dose of Athlophoros, and then at night I took another. I slept soundly that night. The next morning when I awoke I had no pain. I took a few doses more, but in all used only about two-thirds of a bottle before my rheumatism was gone. That was over a year ago, and since then I have had only a slight twinge. So great is my confidence in Athlophoros that I have recommended it to many different people. Among them is a Mrs. Wright, a lady seventy years old, who was entirely rid of all her pain by the medicine after suffering from rheumatism for fifteen years. In every instance it gave entire satisfaction."

Mr. R. Forster, a dealer in furniture at No. 920 Main St., Terre Haute, Ind., who tells the following:

"I have used Athlophoros with the very best satisfaction. I had neuralgia for years, and used ghout every medicine for it without obtaining any relief until I began taking Athlophoros. I was told of the remedy by a friend who bought a bottle of it for me, and I took some that same night. The next day I was as free from pain as if I had never had neuralgia. I went out and spent several hours in a walk which the day before would have been misery to me. During the summer months I am never troubled with neuralgia, but if I should be again I would certainly use Athlophoros, of whose merits I am fully convinced. I have a bottle on hand, but have no use for it at present. I have recommended it to several persons, and have yet to learn of a single instance where it did not accomplish its mission of good work.

Miss Kate Warren, of Stockwell, Ind., who says that she has not been able to effect a complete cure in her case because of inability to obtain Athlophoros when she desired to use it, nevertheless gives this testimony to its merits:

"I have used Athlophoros and have been very much benefited by it. I heartily recommend it to all I meet who are suffering from that dreadful disease, rheumatism."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed.

There Are a Few Druggists

who care more to make a large profit on a worthless article than to wait for the prosperity that ultimately results from honest dealing. These are the men who when asked for a Benson's Capcine Plaster, will recommend some cheap and trashy substitute or imitation, saying it is "just as good." Sometimes they will do up and sell the miserable imitation without remark, allowing the customer to suppose he has Benson's. If the valueless plaster is returned, Cheap John will say he made a mistake;—if not, he has done a good stroke of business. The public are cautioned against John and all his ilk. Buy of respectable druggists only. The genuine Benson's plaster has the "Three Seals" trade mark and the word "Capcine" cut in the centre. a17-4w

A Big School Building.

[Michigan City Dispatch.]

The detailed plans for the parochial school to be built on Tenth street this summer by the congregation of St. Mary's church, have arrived from the architects of Fort Wayne, and we have had the pleasure of inspecting them. The building will be exactly the same as the recent description published in the Dispatch, and it will be the handsomest church school in northern Indiana. The contract for 500,000 brick necessary was let to Roeske Bros., who are to begin delivering by the 20th. John Renkawitz will be superintendent, and the cornerstone will likely be laid in June. If possible Bishop Dwenger will preside at this interesting ceremony.

A LIQUOR LEAGUE.

Christ Enteman Vice-President of the State Association.

At the meeting of the representatives of the liquor interests of the state yesterday afternoon the newly formed organization was given the name of the Indiana protective association. It was decided to appoint an executive committee consisting of six members at large and one from each congressional district. The first as selected were Jacob Wachstetter, John N. Scott, P. H. McNellis and John Huegele, Indianapolis, Lafayette Bulett, of Evansville, and Joseph Bowcamp, Decatur.

The following officers were elected: President, Frank Maus, Indianapolis; vice-president, Chris. Enteman, Fort Wayne; secretary, Edward Schmidt, Indianapolis; treasurer, Chris Waterman, Indianapolis. Branches of the organization are to be established in the outside cities and towns. In the discussion over the political outlook, it was the general sentiment that there should be no change in the existing liquor laws and that the organization would vigorously fight any effort to bring about high license. Last night a constitution and by-laws were adopted and the association adjourned to meet at the call of the executive committee.

Action was also taken looking toward enjoining any other association from using the same name, and the board adjourned to meet again June 1. Amended articles of association were filed with the secretary of state and county recorder at Indianapolis. Dr. Younge came home beaming with victory this morning.

HE PUT UP.

A Fort Wayne Maiden After a Winchester Youth.

"There is at present in Fort Wayne a young unmarried woman who had a very serious grievance against a young man in this city, but a few days ago the latter is said to have gotten out of the responsibility of being called 'papa' a very few months hence by the timely application of some dollars, and enough of 'em too to make it come a little high. The young woman resided here until a short time ago, and may return with her tootsy wootsy little darling 'when the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock.' As the matrimonial bee is said to be buzzing in the near vicinity of the young man we won't give names, at least at present," says the Winchester Democrat.

The Jenny Light at Huntington.

Huntington Democrat.

Wednesday evening the council, accompanied by Mr. McDonald of the Jenny Electric Light company, drove all over the town and examined into the workings of the light. They expressed themselves as being well satisfied, with the exception of West Market street, and a lamp has been placed there, which will disperse the darkness in that locality. To-day the council accepted the plant and made settlement for it, paying the cash payment of $2,310 and giving city orders for the remainder of the purchase price conditioned upon the contract. Mr. McDonald leaves a man here as long as the council may desire, free of charge, to look after it. So now the light is ours.

The Shelbyville Times, the democratic paper ran in opposition to Scott Ray's organ, will on Saturday commence the publication of a morning daily, to be called the Morning Times. It will issue a double number on Sunday, but none on Monday morning.

Honors to a Distinguished Georgian.

It goes without saying that if Gen. Grant had been a southerner, or was he even buried in southern soil, it is more than likely that a memorial to him would not have to go begging for subscriptions, and that notwithstanding the great difference in the wealth of the two sections. The southern people have always been an impulsive race, but they are also warm hearted and grateful to their friends. Witness the magnificent memorial that they are about to erect in Richmond to their dead chieftain, Robert E. Lee. And here is another monument, but this time it is a statesman that is to be honored.

THE "BEN" HILL STATUE.

On Peachtree street, Atlanta, Ga., not far from the governor's mansion, there is now in course of erection a magnificent pedestal for a statute of heroic proportions to the late Senator Benjamin H. Hill, of that state. The figure is of marble, modeled by Sculptor John Doyle, of New York city, and stands ten feet in height. It presents the sturdy senator in a calm and thoughtful attitude. The clothes of our modern immortals are the most difficult portion of the work for an artist to handle without presenting a stiff and ungraceful appearance. The sculptor seems to have managed the costume pretty well in this case, but the unfortunate thought in the matter is that when the Prince Albert coat is superseded by the coming changes of fickle fashion, then the statue will become unsightly. Senator Hill has only been dead three years, and thus early do the citizens of his state honor him.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

I think Ely's Cream Balm is the best remedy for catarrh I ever saw. I never took anything that relieved me so quickly and I have not felt so well for a long time. Prices of

Furniture

Advancing.

From every quarter, by every mail, we are receiving notices of "15 per cent.," "20 per cent," and "25 per cent. advance" on all kinds of manufactured furniture.

The idleness of thousands of cabinet makers who are out upon strikes, the advance in wages now being demanded, and to a large extent, granted, and the demand for eight hours to constitute a day's work, thus cutting down the productiveness of labor 20 per cent. is all tending to great scarcity of goods and a rapid advance in prices.

Anticipating just this state of affairs, we have piled in the goods in car lots, until our immense establishment is packed from cellar to garret, and from floor to ceiling, with the best bought stock of Fine Furniture we have ever shown to the trade.

This will enable us to go through the best part of the Spring Season without advancing prices, but we advise our friends to buy both Furniture and Carpets at as early a day as possible.

Every Bedroom Set now marked $35 is worth $40; every $40 Set is worth in the neighborhood of $50; and the same is true of all other articles in our establishment. If you should buy of us today a $50 Bedroom Set, and we had but the one left, and your neighbor should to-morrow want one like it, the best price we could give her upon it would be $60.

The time is not likely to ever again occur when you can furnish your home as cheaply as now.

NO HAIR ! !

SIBERIA

How often we see no hair on the top of a head, nor on a face that would improve with it, even after repeated applications of so-called hair restorers. Away with all trash. The SIBERIAN HAIR RESTORER was discovered by a scientific exile while confined in the mines of Siberia, and will positively produce hair. As a restorer it is without a rival, and a trial will convince anyone of its remarkable qualities. It is put on the market at the low price of 50 cents to enable the most skeptical to give it a trial and convince themselves of its genuineness. On receipt of the same in postage stamps or postal note it will be forwarded under cover free of charge to any part of the United States. Address

AMERICA'S POPULAR PREACHER.

The Rev. Dr. T. De Witt Talmage—His Father's Struggles.

The reception and wide circulation which the press of the country has given the recent series of sermons of Dr. Talmage on the Marriage Ring, show that the words of the reverend doctor have even grown in interest to the public. He has reached the zenith of his fame and influence, as it does seem scarcely possible that a single minister could attain a wider popularity than that which he now holds.

Dr. Talmage owes his success to hard, unflagging work. The faculty for this he inherits from his parents. He was born in Bound Brook, N. J., fifty-four years ago, the youngest of twelve children.

In referring to his father Dr. Talmage says: "My father started in life belonging to the aristocracy of hard knuckles; but had this high honor that no one could despise—he was the son of a father who loved God and kept His commandments. Two eyes, two hands and two feet were the capital my father started with. For fifteen years an invalid, he had a fearful struggle to support his large family. More than once he came to his last dollar, but behind that last dollar he found Him who owns the cattle on a thousand hills, and out of the palm of whose hand all the fowls of heaven peck their food."

Speaking of his mother, he says: "I was the child of her old age, and I remember how her voice used to tremble in evening prayer, with what kindness she started me out in life, and how she watched me and cared for me all the way through; and then giving each one of us a blessing she went away to the palace window, where she is waiting for good news from us."

After graduating from the University of the City of New York, T. DeWitt Talmage studied law for one year. But he was impelled toward the pulpit, and he entered the Theological seminary at New Brunswick, N. J. His first charges were at Belleville, N. J. and Syracuse, N. Y. From there he went to the Second Reformed Church of Philadelphia. Here his fame began. After seven years of labor here he went, in 1869, to the Brooklyn Tabernacle, which he has since rendered famous. The congregation was small, but his preaching soon attracted crowds far beyond the capacity of the building. A larger structure was erected, capable of seating 3,000 people. This was burned Dec. 22, 1872. In 1874 the present edifice was dedicated. It will seat 5,000 persons, though an enlargement of it has long been contemplated, owing to its present overcrowding, the doctor himself often gaining admittance only through the aid of the police.

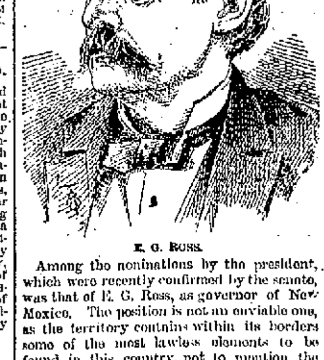

Dr. Talmage preaches without notes, and sometimes to emphasize his remarks he gesticulates with the long and supple arms and legs which the Almighty has lavishly provided him with.

REV. T. DE WITT TALMAGE.

An able writer says of his sermons: "Dr. Talmage starts out with a narration of incidents told in Scripture in connection with the text. His voice is conversational in tone. He talks just as he would if at a fireside, describing scenery visited in foreign travel. With his hands folded behind his back, he leisurely promenades his long platform, about which there is neither railing nor the usual pulpit. Walking up and down, facing now one, now another section of the house, his unaffected narrative proceeds. He passes from pleasing narrative to entertaining history, and, while pointing to the entertaining features of it, also discloses with marvellous clearness the characters of the personages involved therein. But before his analysis has been recorded a curtain falls over dazzling hell, resplendant decorations and art treasures, and in their stead is opened up a view of a mountain and a cross upon it, with the Son of God being offered as a sacrifice for the sins of the world. The charming conserver, historian and artist has magically lured his audience on, enchained its fancy, spell-bound its attention, only to fit it for the transcendant glories of the divine scene he here presents. Now his thoughts glow and his gestures emphasize the ardor of his soul in the cause of salvation; on and on, from height to height of divine eulogy he leads his listeners, while they tearfully follow. It is as a recounter of history that Dr. Talmage commands and delights his audience.

Governor of New Mexico.

E. G. ROSS.

Among the nominations by the president, which were recently confirmed by the senate, was that of E. G. Ross, as governor of New Mexico. The position is not an enviable one, as the territory contains within its borders some of the most lawless elements to be found in this country, not to mention the Mexican "greasers" that are a constant source of annoyance to the territory's executive. Governor Ross possesses that quiet firmness that augers well for his success in this office. The salary accompanying this position is but $2,600 per year, and the term of office lasts for four years.

A Woman's Sarcasm.

Mrs. Carlisle, the wife of the speaker, is a woman whose candor wears no cloak of hypocrisy or policy. Some time ago she was talking to Miss Susan B. Anthony, and spoke in high terms of herself and the other women associated in the suffrage movement.

"Ah!" replied Miss A., with tears in her eyes, "I am very grateful for your words, and wish you could know better all the women active in that great cause."

"Well," replied Mrs. C., frankly, "it is just because I don't know them better that I hold them in such high esteem."—Washington Critic.

Father Ryan.

Abram J. Ryan was born in Ireland, 46 years ago. His parents came to America, near Norfolk, Va., when he was a baby. He was a gifted, fiery boy from infancy, and was educated for the Roman Catholic priesthood. He received his training at Niagara Falls. He had barely left college and been ordained as a priest when the war broke out. He entered the Confederate service as a chaplain. More than that, he took up the southern cause and threw himself into the war with all the fire and energy of a passionate and powerful nature. His devotion did not stop at his duties as chaplain. The young Father Ryan was a fighter as well as priest and poet. When the wounded dropped a musket he picked it up and shouldered it and used it. Once he was wounded while fighting in the ranks. It was at Nashville, Tenn. He also was of great service in the hospitals.

FATHER RYAN.

His face is a peculiar one. Swarthy and full of expression, there is that in it which suggests the oriental type. The Irish have a tradition that the true original settlers of their island were the ancient Phoenicians. Inscriptions found among ruins here and there in Ireland bear out this belief. Father Ryan's face is a strong presumption in favor of it.

After the war it seemed that his occupation was gone. He was as fiery and untamed a southerner as Robert Toombs, and he never was reconstructed. He was settled in various parishes throughout the south after the fighting was over. For a time he was at Biloxi, Miss., and later at Mobile. He was a man of eloquence and fire in his sermons. He preached during a season at the cathedral, New Orleans, and drew vast audiences, sometimes over 5,000.

He consoled his grief for the lost cause by writing poetry, and it is as a poet that he is best known. It is rather a strange circumstance that at his death he should have been more honored by the general public than by his own church, gifted preacher and lecturer though he was. He died at Louisville, Ky., at the Franciscan monastery, of heart disease. The passionate heart had worn itself out when he was only 40.

His remains were taken to Mobile for burial. At the railway station in Louisville, where his body was brought to be shipped, 100 ex-Confederate soldiers were drawn up in open line and the coffin carried between them.

In 1879 he published a volume of poems. Some of them are strikingly strong and musical. The best known is "The Conquered Banner," beginning:

Furl that banner, for 'tis weary;
Round its staff it's drooping dreary;
Furl it, fold it, it is best.

The Flag Saves Him.

As long as Mr. Jefferson Davis makes his harangues with the flag of the Union waving above his head his remarks are harmless. The flag makes a speech to the eyes of his auditors which takes all the sting out of the words that reach their ears.—Philadelphia Record.

To the Cuticura Remedies I Owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the Cuticura Remedies. Seven years ago, all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura, the great Skin Cure, and Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and Cuticura Resolvent, the new Blood Purifier, internally; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke, in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two slight scars in my neck to-day to tell the story of my suffering. My weight then was 115 sickly pounds; my weight now is 161 solid, healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet five inches. In my travels I praised the Cuticura Remedies, North, South, East and West. To cuticura remedies I owe my Health, my Happiness, and my Life. A prominent New York druggist asked me the other day, "Do you still use the Cuticura Remedies; you look to be in perfect health?" My reply was, "I do, and shall always. I have never known what sickness is since I commenced using the Cuticura remedy." Sometimes I am laughed at by praising them to people not acquainted with their merits, but sooner or later they will come to their senses and believe the same as those that use them, as dozens have whom I have told. May the time come when there shall be a large Cuticura Supply House in every city in the world, for the benefit of humanity, where the Cuticura remedies shall be sold only, so that there will be rarely a need of ever entering a drugstore.

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of Sanford's Radical cure for Catarrh will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvelous curative power of Sanford's Radical Cure manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent and an Improved Inhaler; price, $1. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON.
